

Biography

Amy Allinson is a junior paralegal beginning this chapter of her career in the area of personal injury with a focus on insurance defence work. Amy maintains a high attention to detail with her work product while always remaining efficient. She is well known for her positive attitude and politeness in all her interactions with clients, business partners and opposing firms.

Amy has been working on insurance defence matters for over five years with Stevens Virgin, specifically with ICBC as a major client. She has been a legal assistant in the area of civil litigation with a touch of family law since 2009, working at Stevens Virgin since 2011. Amy has a broad set of legal skills from starting as a receptionist, becoming an experienced Legal Assistant and continuing her education towards the paralegal role that she is now embracing.
