

Biography

Danielle Howes joined Stevens Virgin as a Paralegal in October, 2016. She currently works in the area of insurance defence litigation with a particular focus on motor vehicle accidents.

Danielle provides a supportive role in all aspects of the organization and management of files. Specifically, she assists with document production, including gathering and analyzing medical evidence, drafting pleadings and court applications, preparing lists of documents, researching law, preparing quantum assessments and summaries of medical evidence, and communicating directly with clients and related parties.

Prior to joining Stevens Virgin, Danielle developed an expertise in civil litigation in the area of personal injury while working for several mid-sized Vancouver based firms.
