

Biography

Rabjeet Singh Wallia (RJ) provides legal services to both plaintiffs and insurance companies as part of his personal injury practice. RJ also helps individuals and businesses as part of a growing commercial litigation practice. He is passionate about achieving favourable outcomes for his clients. With a diverse grounding in law, RJ is known for providing clients with innovative solutions.

RJ has represented clients in both British Columbia and Ontario. While in Ontario, RJ helped his clients win numerous arbitration claims over insurance benefits, and often succeeded in having claims against his clients dismissed entirely. Since returning to British Columbia, he has continued to advance his clients' interests in all levels of court, including the Supreme Court of British Columbia. He is currently a member of the Vancouver Bar Association, the Canadian Bar Association, and a Director on the Capilano University Alumni Association.

RJ graduated from Osgoode Hall Law School in 2012 with a certification in Litigation and Dispute Resolution while also receiving the Dean's Gold Key Award. He then went on to article with a well-known insurance defence boutique in Toronto before joining the in-house litigation team of the country's largest direct home & automobile insurer. After that, RJ decided to return to Vancouver in 2015 and began his practice working in-house for a large automobile insurer. In 2016, he joined Stevens Virgin, where he continues to safeguard client interests.
